GROUP RELATIONS
— SINGAPORE —

THE OF HUMAN
TAVISTOCK RELATIONS
INSTITUTE

Designed for leaders, consultants and professionals seeking deeper insight into leadership, authority and organisational dynamics.

Every organisation operates within systems influenced by history, culture, authority and identity.

These inherited systems shape how leadership is taken up, how voices are heard, and how groups work together.

Organisations are shaped not only by conscious strategy and explicit structure, but also by hidden emotional and relational dynamics.

This experiential leadership programme offers a rare opportunity to explore these dynamics in real time, and deepen awareness of how leadership, collaboration and decision-making emerge in complex organisational life.

Message from the Director of the Conference, Dr Eliat Aram

What Makes This Leadership Programme Unique?

Rooted in the Tavistock Tradition

The programme draws on the Tavistock approach to organisational learning, a psychodynamic and system-based tradition developed in the UK from the 1950s and widely applied internationally in leadership and organisational development

Experiential Learning and Reflection

Participants engage with group dynamics as they unfold in the here and now, and reflect on their experiences with each other and consultants to gain deeper insight into leadership, authority and organisational behaviour.

International Staff Team

Regional and International thought-leaders bring diverse professional, organisational and cultural perspectives from leadership development, consulting and group relations practice.

A Temporary Learning Organisation

For the duration of the conference, a temporary learning organisation is created in which participants can experiment with and study leadership, authority and group dynamics as they emerge in real time.
